THE WEATHER

The daily record of the thermometer in this city is reported by A. T. Playter, druggist, corner Main and First streets. The record for yesterday was: 7 a. m., 38 degrees above; 12 m., 62 degrees above; 4 p. m., 70 degrees above; 8 p. m., 64 degrees above.

ABOUT THE CITY.

The Salvation army was out in full force last night, their numbers having been augmented by about 15 new recruits. They evidently intend to make a stay here.

A short time ago a telegram was received from the manager of Helena's ball club asking if it would be possible to get on a game with this city. The Helena have offered to play for their expenses, and it is understood that a subscription will shortly be taken up. Should the scheme prove successful a picked nine will be made up from last Sunday's teams to contest with the Helena's and a good game will undoubtedly be the result.

Up in Town.

A rather amusing incident happened at the tennis court late yesterday afternoon. A prominent society lady has for some time past been trying to induce a well-known gentleman to learn the game of tennis and yesterday the happy couple hid their way to the tennis court and then the fun began. The game was of short duration for the gentleman heartlessly defeated the lady two straight sets much to the lady's chagrin. The game was indefinitely postponed.

Fixed Up in Fine Style.

The half of Toosey & Hunt's gambling saloon that has been closed for repairs for some weeks past will be opened to-day, and the other half will be closed and put through the same course. The part just finished is in excellent shape, the whole interior having been papered in handsome designs. The bar and other fixtures have been cleaned and revarnished and changed in other ways until the whole interior resembles that of a decidedly new and beautiful appearance. The contractors have done a very creditable job.

DEBTS OF OLD COUNCILS

STATE OF THE TREASURY

City Attorney English Claims That the Reduction of His Salary to $1,000 Invalid—He Wants $1,800.

A special meeting of the city council was held at Standard hall last night pursuant to a call by the mayor. There were present Mayor Redmond, Aldermen Martin, Barkovich, King, Fitzpatrick and Walker. The mayor stated that the object of the meeting was to hear reports from the finance committee, the street and alley committee and the fire committee, and to take action regarding the tax levy for road purposes. Alderman King, chairman of the finance committee, said he knew of nothing that the finance committee had to report. Alderman Martin, another member of the committee, arose and said that the appropriations made for the last fiscal year had been greatly overdrawn. It was necessary to take some action to protect City Treasurer Delury. This statement was confirmed by Mr. Delury. Alderman Martin then said that the total appropriations for last year were $23,593. The old city clerk, Mr. Boorman, had presented a report showing expenditures amounting to $26,267. Then, Mr. Martin continued, Mr. Boorman had made an error of $29 in his footings, so that the expenditures were really $26,292 more than that. Again the interest on the sewer bonds, $1,500, was not mentioned in the report. Finally warrants for $1,028 had come in after Mr. Boorman's report was made up, making the grand total $29,295 against the appropriation of $23,593.

Mr. Martin presented a statement showing how much the various funds had been overdrawn. He said that the city council had never kept within its appropriations. Each council had fallen into the habit of paying the remaining debts of its predecessor. This should be stopped. A new set of books should be opened and the council should live within its appropriations.

Alderman King said that the council that expired a year ago left behind $5,000 and $6,000 in debts for last year's council to pay. This explained why the appropriations were overdrawn. Alderman Walkup thought that the members of the finance committee should either go at it themselves or else employ an accountant, and go back to the beginning and find out the actual condition of things. After this knowledge had been obtained, after it was learned just what the overdraws in each fund amounted to, then action to provide for such overdrafts could be taken.

After further consideration, a motion made by Alderman Walkup prevailed, to the effect that the finance committee be given further time for investigation into the matter, with instructions to report at its earliest convenience.

City Treasurer Delury said there were still warrants outstanding, and he wanted to know what to do when they were presented. Alderman Martin thought the council should authorize the city treasurer to register the warrants.

City Attorney English had given it as his official opinion that the appropriations made for this year could properly cover only expenditures made during this year. On motion of Alderman Walkup the matter of registering the outstanding warrants was referred to the judiciary committee, to report at the same time as the finance committee.

There being some money in the road fund City Treasurer Delury was authorized to pay the bills of Ex-Street Commissioner Welch.

Alderman Martin of the street and alley committee, requested Mr. Welch to prepare an invoice of all tools and implements belonging to the city. Mr. Welch said he would do this, and would turn over the property as soon as the city settled his account.

Alderman Walkup, chairman of the fire committee, reported that he had the fire department and apparatus in good condition. He had been unable to see Mr. Collins, another member of the committee, but he had seen Mr. Murray, the third member, and Mr. Murray agreed with him in recommending to the council the retention of Charles Collins as watchman at the fire house. On motion of Alderman King, the council unanimously voted to continue Mr. Collins in the place. The fire committee was authorized to buy keys for the fire boxes and to make such other small purchases for the department as seemed demanded.

P. J. Maloney as chief and George Elston as assistant chief of the fire department were formally recognized as such by the city government by resolution of the council.

Mayor Redmond said that ordinance No. 32 required the city clerk to preserve copies of the papers in which the ordinances of the city were published. When Mr. Winston retired from the office of city clerk he handed over the papers to Mr. Boorman, his successor, and had Mr. Boorman's receipt for them. But Mr. Boorman, the mayor said, had handed over no such papers to Mr. English.

The mayor inquired if ordinance No. 32 specified any penalty for its violation. Mr. English said it did not, but he thought that Mr. Boorman or his bondsmen could be held liable for any damage which might result to the city through any negligence of his while in office.

Inquiry was made of Mr. Winston, who was present at the meeting, as to whether he still held Mr. Boorman's receipt for the papers he turned over to him, and if so whether he would permit the council to borrow it. Mr. Winston replied in the affirmative to both questions. The matter was then referred to the judiciary committee to investigate.

The matter of the tax levy was then brought up and the council decided to defer action until the next meeting.

City Attorney English then sprang the sensation of the evening. It will be remembered that the last council fixed the city attorney's salary at $1,000, exclusive of the $7.50 he gave him out of the fine and costs imposed in police court cases where such fine and costs are paid. The salary before had been $1,800 exclusive of the fees. Mr. English regarded the cut as very unjust. He said furthermore that it was illegal, because the old council in making it had not obeyed the law. The statute requires the council to fix the salaries of the city officers at the last regular meeting before the municipal election. Mr. English said the old council did not do this until after the election. He admitted that the salaries were fixed at an adjourned meeting, but he denied that it was an adjourned meeting of a regular meeting, since the original meeting from which the adjournment was taken was held on a Wednesday, whereas the regular meeting was due on Monday. But even if it were an adjourned meeting of a regular meeting, action of the council in fixing the salaries at the adjourned meeting was still invalid, because, Mr. English contended, the council had no right under the law to adjourn a meeting for this purpose until after the election. Mr. English therefore claimed that the action of the council in cutting his salary down $800 was null and void and he was entitled to the same salary as his predecessor had received. He submitted this proposition to the council: Let the council select a competent lawyer to render a decision on the point; if the referee decided the action of the old council valid, then let Mr. English pay the costs; if he decided otherwise then the costs should fall on the city.

Mr. King said the council could take no action on this matter at this meeting, for the reason that it was a special meeting and the law forbade the council to take action regarding any matter not specified in the call for the meeting.

Mayor Redmond said this matter was embraced in the call, since the concluding words of that document were "to take action in regard to such other matters as may properly come before the meeting."

The mayor said he had taken counsel on the point. Alderman King still said that this business of the council was not proper and it would be wrong to act upon it. The council adjourned without action.

"From Sire to Son"

Milton and Dolie Nobles and their company gave a performance of "From Sire to Son" at Evans opera house before an audience of about 300 people, who expressed themselves as delighted with the play. The play itself has a pleasing plot, intricately interwoven and having an unusually happy ending. It abounds with striking situations and catchy tableaux, and as presented by Mr. Nobles' company it has the interpretation of a number of first-rate artists. It is unnecessary to comment on the efforts of Milton Nobles, as his reputation speaks for itself. Last night he was at his best. Dolie Nobles has improved greatly in her style of acting, and besides being decidedly pretty gave an artistic and charming performance of the difficult dual role assigned to her. In fact every part is in good hands. Mr. Nobles may rest assured that he will always receive a hearty welcome in this city.

A New Base Ball Club.

KETTLE FALLS.

Big Yield of Syrup—A Columbia Valley Farmer Who Makes It Pay.

SEVEN ACRES THIS YEAR

Will Produce a Thousand Gallons or About One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars to the Acre.

S. Sogile, who owns a splendid farm in the Columbia valley, below Kettle Falls, came up a few days ago to look over the field as a market for produce and ascertain the probable extent of the demand during the ensuing season. Receiving far greater encouragement than he anticipated, he will extend his operations in lines heretofore neglected on account of the lack of a market. He is making a specialty of sorghum, which he has found to be a very profitable crop. This year he has planted seven acres of cane, from which he expects a yield of over 1,000 gallons of syrup. From this he will realize about $115 to the acre, at 80 cents a gallon for the product. He has an improved iron mill, operated by water power. He is now putting in a 14-foot water wheel and improving his evaporator, so that he will be prepared to work up considerable cane besides his own. One of his neighbors, Hank Hughes, has four acres this season, while Mr. Schaefer and others have planted more or less, in anticipation of an increasing demand. Mr. Sogile says the cane thrives better in this valley and produces a larger yield than in any locality he has ever seen. It grows from 12 to 14 feet in height and is remarkably rich in saccharine matter. Boiled down to 11 pounds to the gallon the juice will yield at 12 pounds will turn two-thirds into sugar. He intends summer following a portion of his land this year and will experiment with an acre of sugar beets, which he thinks will eventually be a profitable crop. Mr. Sogile and all the other farmers down the Columbia river are looking to Kettle Falls as their future market and source of supplies. He has lettuce, radishes and onions now ready for the table, and only a week ago used the last of the crop of apples of 1890. He says all fruits grow abundantly with little care and he has obtained three good crops of alfalfa in one season. He has raised as high as sixty bushels of corn to the acre, and next fall will put in a crop feed mill and raise hogs on a large scale. Potatoes and other vegetables do equally as well as those above mentioned. While all the farmers in the valley are anxiously awaiting the construction of a railroad from Kettle Falls down the river, they are equally interested in the removal of the obstructions from the river. As soon as that is done Mr. Sogile says, the farmers will organize a company and build a little steamboat themselves for the local traffic between Kettle Falls and their agricultural section.
